of the Year

Welcome back to our travelers and our snowbirds. It is great to see everyone coming back to Florida where the weather has been absolutely beautiful. It will be interesting to see who will win the most miles ridden this year at our annual Christmas Party. Should we take any bets? LOL.

We are looking forward to seeing all of you at our first gathering since May. The summer has gone by fast, and we are sure you will have many interesting stories to tell. So be prepared on Saturday, October 28th to attend our gathering at the Golden Corral in Fort Myers and tell us what you have done over the summer. Breakfast at 8 am and gathering at 9 am. Marty Van de Ven is planning a ride after the gathering. At the gathering we will be discussing the remainder of the 2023 year, and we will be discussing the future of FL2G. It is hard to believe that the year is almost over already. Time certainly does fly when you are having fun.

We hope to see everyone at the October gathering. If you won't be there, hope to see you on the ride or at one of our lunch events. Watch the updates for the weekly information.

Happy Halloween and have a wonderful Thanksgiving.

Remember our moto. Ride safe and have fun, fun, fun.

ORGANIZED CHAOS – RIDING A MOTORCYCLE IN ITALY

We recently completed an 8 day tour of Italy on a motorcycle so I thought I would share our experiences should any of you chose to venture such a trip. The first thing you need to do is readjust your mindset on how to ride a motorcycle. You can take anything you know about legally riding a motorcycle and through it out the window. Almost all Italians, whether on two or four wheels like to go fast, park in the most impossible places, honk often, and don't care about turn signals, stop signs, or similar trifles. You have to be willing to ride aggressively and have advanced riding skills to survive. The locals who mostly ride scooters seem to have no problem negotiating in traffic. The whole time we were there we saw no traffic accidents involving motorcycles, scooters or cars. The one thing hard to find was a motorcycle, scooter or car that didn't have sideswipe or fall-down damage on it. The reason scooters, motorcycles and cars coexist safely is probably because most car drivers started out as scooter or motorcycle riders. They know what the scooter and motorcycle riders are going to do and expect it. Beyond the expectation of crazy riding, most car drivers will give way to a scooter or motorcycle that is passing them. Everyone in Italy rides or drives like they are in a big hurry. It makes me think of the words in a country western song: "I'm in a hurry but don't know why".

The secondary roads in towns were narrow and uneven. Although the GPS listed the driving route as a "road", often times it was more like an alley way with only enough room for one small car to pass through at a time. Sometimes there were one way signs regulating the flow of traffic in these narrow passageways but most times there were no signs and you were on your own to make it through. Traffic signs are only a suggestion in Italy. All vehicles did stop for red lights but that was about the only traffic control device honored. Most vehicles drove 20-40 miles per hour over the speed limit. Some small towns had automated radar boxes with cameras that are supposed to send you a speeding ticket in the mail. The verdict is still out on that one. Passing is done anywhere. Often in blind curves. If you ride too much to the right of your lane don't be surprised if a Fiat passes you in your lane.

The tour company we used was called Edelweiss. Not the only company available but one we have used 4 times now. This company has been around since the 1980's. They provide everything you need once you arrive. Airfare and travel to get to the host hotel are on you. This company started out with BMW motorcycles back in the 80's but now they have a good selection of bikes, but no Honda Gold Wings. Nor would you want to ride a Gold Wing there. Maneuvers must be quick and precise in often limited spaces so the Gold Wing would not be practical. However, there were times I wished I had "reverse" for parking. Our group consisted of 10 motorcycles: 2 BMW 1250 RT's, 5 BMW 1250 GS's, 2 Ducati Monsters, and 1 Suzuki 1000 V-Strom. 8 bikes had two-up riders and 2 bikes had solo riders. The solo riders were a husband and wife. When you book your trip you get to choose what brand and model bike you want to ride. You must pick one primary choice and one secondary choice. Out of our 4 trips we only got our secondary choice once. There are even "Harley Davidson only" trips available to book. The reason for Harley to be separate this is for safety. The size and ground clearance limitations of a Harley would make it dangerous for a rider to try to keep up with the sporty and adventure type motorcycles.

Edelweiss offers what they call "Coverall Insurance" for an additional cost. We and they highly recommend it. On every trip, including this one, we have had bikes fall over. Bikes falling over are usually during parking due to uneven and often unpaved parking surfaces. You are responsible to pay for any fall down damage to the bike you are riding at the end of the trip. The "Coverall Insurance" covers any damage.

The roads between cities were twisty. Many of the riders in the group had been to the "Dragon's Tail" in North Carolina, 318 curves in 11 miles. The comments by many were that the Dragon's Tail was child's play compared to the roads we were on. The Dragon's Tail ride only takes about 15-20 minutes. We rode the twisties for an hour to an hour and a half before stopping for a break. You felt like you just had a work out at the gym. The scenery was spectacular. Imagine any Italian countryside painting you have see come to life. Almost every mountain top had a castle, monastery, or church. Towns were then built descending from these structures. We started tour in Rome. Rode North to Florence and then South again back to Rome. We combined riding with sightseeing. We saw many beautiful structures and the many ruins of the Roman Empire. A bus sightseeing tour would give you more time to visit the sites. We went a day early and took a foot tour of Rome which is offered and recommended.

Gasoline was expensive. Although sold by the liter for about 1.90 euro that come out to about $8.00 a gallon. It was a good thing we were on motorcycle. We averaged about 175 miles a day which was fine given the workout we got and having enough time to stop to see the sites. We stayed in 5 star hotels. The food was plentiful and good. Breakfast and dinner were part of the tour package price. At lunch you could purchase whatever you liked at your own expense not forgetting to get some gelato along the way.

These trips are not cheap. But you will never experience a motorcycle trip anywhere else at any price that compares. If you are able to take such a riding trip, do it now while you are still able and have the time. Edelweiss does offer many tours in other countries with less strenuous riding. Just stay away from Italy if that is what you want.

ATGATT- Not just a motto, but a way of life!

*Ride Safe!
